

Final Project Work Session

Finish the Project You Can Actually Submit

WORK
TIME

Today is mostly individual work time. Use the checklist, draft one paragraph, and leave knowing exactly what remains.

Due May 26, 2026

Choose your target

Pick two goals for today

- Clarify question or evidence
- Improve notebook, chart, or summary table
- Draft findings or recommendation
- Write privacy, ethics, or limitation paragraph
- Format MLA citations or Works Cited

Complete project

A complete final project answers these questions

- What question are you answering?
- What evidence are you using?
- What did you find?
- What should someone do?
- What privacy or ethics concern matters?
- What limit should readers understand?

Coding path checklist

If you are coding, focus on readable analysis

- Notebook or script runs in order
- Code comments explain the pandas steps
- Output includes a table or chart
- Report explains findings in plain language

Essay path checklist

If you are writing, focus on argument and MLA

- One focused claim
- At least three credible sources
- Security plus privacy or ethics
- In-text citations and Works Cited
- Recommendation and limitation

Common mistakes

Avoid these final-project problems

- Topic is too broad
- Evidence is listed but not explained
- Recommendation is vague
- Privacy or ethics is added as one sentence at the end
- No limitation paragraph

Work block

Most of class: work individually

Use the lab checklist.

- Ask for help narrowing the project
- Write one useful paragraph today
- Save your work somewhere you can find it
- Submit the checkpoint before leaving

Exit ticket

Before you leave: name what remains

- What did you finish today?
- What is the most important remaining task?
- What exactly will you submit?
- What question do you still have?
